DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-23, drawn to a method of processing blood including the steps of: removing blood from a patient, processing the blood, returning the blood at a return rate, and varying the flow rate over time classified in class 604, subclass 4.01.
 - II. Claim 24, drawn to a method of processing blood including the steps of: removing blood from a patient, processing the blood, returning the blood, and repeating the draw and return cycles while adjusting the draw rate classified in class 604, subclass 4.01.
 - III. Claims 25-50, drawn to a method of processing blood including the steps of: determining the total blood volume of a patient, removing blood from a patient at a particular rate, processing the blood, and returning the blood at a particular flow rate, classified in class 604, subclass 4.01.
 - IV. Claims 51-68, drawn to a method for processing blood including the steps of: removing blood during a draw cycle, conducting the removed blood through a separation system, collecting a first portion of the separated blood, recirculating a second portion, returning a third portion of the blood to the patient, wherein the separation is controlled by a claimed selection criteria, classified in class 604, subclass 5.01.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Art Unit: 3761

2. Inventions in Groups I-V are directed to related processes. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, the inventions are mutually exclusive, since they are not capable of being used together, are not obvious variants since they incorporate additional or different steps from one another, and have a materially different effect in the way that the methods affect the blood being processed. Although each invention recites the steps of removing, processing, and returning blood to the patient, each group recites steps that materially alter the treatment of the blood in the system, making the groups distinct from one another for examination purposes.

3. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
